FOUNDER'S NOTE

SHIVAM AHUJA

FOUNDER & CEO

I began my career in 2008 as an online blogger when data-driven decision-making was still in its infancy. At that time, very few people were leveraging data to drive business insights, and the concept of data science as a career was not widely recognized. However, I quickly realized the power of data when I analyzed audience behavior and optimized content strategies, unknowingly applying early data analytics principles.

In 2009, I earned my first income through data-backed strategies, which made me understand the immense potential of leveraging data for growth. Today, we have shaped the careers of 50,000+ students, many of whom are now working as data analysts, data scientists, and AI professionals in top companies. Some have even launched their own ventures, applying data-driven methodologies to innovate in various industries.

I strongly believe that 2025 and beyond hold unparalleled opportunities in data science, AI, and analytics—far more than the last decade combined. The demand for skilled data professionals is skyrocketing, and I am highly optimistic about the future of this field.

I wish all aspiring Data Scientists, Analysts, and Professionals the very best in their journey with Skillcircle. The future belongs to those who can turn data into meaningful insights!
